

Jay Koka Biography
Thirty Years of Automotive Art Excellence
(2016, authorized for reproduction)

"Although I'm a lifelong motorhead, my interest in automotive fine art is in the context in which the automobile exists rather than the depiction of the automobile itself. The interplay of the vehicle and its environment and its human operators is to me the most worthwhile pursuit of fine art..."

A well known and internationally respected artist, Jay Koka's skillful manipulation of color and mood plus considered composition... and an occasionally impressionist style... exemplify the artist who is never satisfied with the status quo and always brings a true element of surprise to the viewer at each new exhibition.

Initially known for a highly realistic style and a technical approach to his automotive-themed art, half way through his career, Koka replaced the small and tightly rendered gouache works with very large format canvases with a notable disregard for detail and an emphasis on explorations in texture, form and color. Always creatively restless and endlessly experimenting in the style of his work, Koka today alternates between these two style extremes realism and impressionism exist side by side in Koka's body of work.

Koka's original works are collected by private and public audiences worldwide. In a career filled with accomplishment, Koka is particularly proud of his selection by the CHRYSLER Corporation for the creation of "Metamorphosis", a major 80 square foot, 4-panel work for the corporation's World Headquarters in 1996. His Studio has published a large and popular body of over 150 limited print editions which have been distributed throughout the world. His original paintings as well as an online catalog of his prints and posters are featured in two extensive websites located at jaykokastudio.com and autoartprints.com. He is particularly well known for his large and widely disseminated body of work on Ferrari, in fact, his art has been used as a Christmas card by the Ferrari Club of Italy and in 1998, his work was selected for exhibition at the "CENTARIO FERRARI", the centenary celebrations held in Modena, Italy by Ferrari. In 2002, Koka was commissioned by PIRELLI North America to prepare a series of original paintings that were presented to the winners in the Ferrari Challenge Series. Each painting depicted the race winner and was presented as the "Ferrari Challenge Trofeo Pirelli". Koka was also commissioned by Nissan to produce artwork for the 35th anniversary of the "Z".

Koka has been featured artist and poster artist for many international automotive events including the famed Pebble Beach and Meadow Brook Concours, Bloomington Gold, Concours of the Eastern United States, Reading Ferrari Concours, Eyes on Design, Concorso at Meadow Brook, ten times for the Ferrari Club of America Annual Meets and for the six years, the Cavallino Ferrari Classic of Palm Beach.
